"THE Senior Classes at Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Williams, Amherst, and Dartmouth have adopted the cap and gown." —Exchange.

The Class of '94 has reached that stage of its college existence, when in keeping with the heavy dignity it has to maintain the long visored cap and the sweater, now just a little passé, must be laid aside. Innovations are ever welcome at Lehigh and we take heartily to them. Let our Senior Class fall in line with the long column of black-gowned collegians of the East.

WE cannot censure too heavily the actions of certain of our college mates during the recent Pennsylvania-Lehigh football game. The guying which certain players on the Pennsylvania eleven received was totally unnecessary and ungentlemanly. If this sort of thing continues, the management will have a hard time in getting the other college elevens to appear on our grounds. No team likes to be insulted, and will not appear where they are liable to be insulted. Lehigh's reputation for fairness will be greatly shattered if this sort of thing continues.

FROM the games that have thus far been played we are able to judge in some measure of the strength of our foot-ball team.

We congratulate it upon the good form shown in the face of the most adverse circumstances. That the places suddenly made vacant by the injuries to players have been so satisfactorily filled, speaks well for the abilities of our coach, Mr. Graves, and acting Captain McClung. To the latter especially are due the thanks of the college, for his taking charge of the team at the critical period when it was demoralized by the temporary loss of its captain.

IT is interesting to know that Lehigh's alumni are beginning to take an active interest in the athletics of the University. The action of the Alumni Association, in assuming part of the debt of the Athletic Association, was certainly praiseworthy, and the congratulations on the success of the lacrosse team of last year, shows that our graduates look with pride on the success of the teams. The alumni are also willing to help support the athletics of the university, and it is this point that we wish to bring forward. We have no doubt, that if the different alumni associations, in the various cities were properly broached on the subject, they would contribute gladly. The Athletic Association needs money, and we bring this method to their notice, as one which we believe to be a good one, and productive of good results.

THE cancellation of the foot-ball game with the New York Athletic Club last Saturday was quite necessary under the circumstances, but it calls our attention only the more forcibly to the fact that the foot-ball schedule for this year has been most miserably arranged. With the season half passed we have but one game left to be played at home, and we have had only three thus far. This is bad policy, both from a financial standpoint and in its effect on the popularity of the team. The University takes an interest in the game as well as in the men who play it, and it is much more pleasant to see the work of our team than read about it in the newspapers.

RECENT events show, that if Lehigh is to have consistently successful foot-ball teams, some better means must be had to develop new men and to bring out the material. We are always liable to lose some of our regular men by accidents, the rigor of examinations or by other causes. There should be at least two good men for every place on the team. There are in college a sufficient number of men with the requisite natural gifts, and they only need the training to make good substitutes this year and 'Varsity men, perhaps, next year. The question is, how to induce them to train and to come out regularly.

In our last issue we spoke of the benefits to be derived from class games. This gives the answer to the question. Let us have class teams, to be made up of men not on the 'Varsity. In this way many who have no idea as to what their possibilities as foot ball players are, will be induced to learn the game and may develop into phenomenal players.

JUST now the college world is waiting expectantly to see what will be the final outcome of the famous undergraduate rule. Rumors of the breaking up of the old league and of the formation of fresh foot-ball alliances are as plentiful as sore eyes at examination time and the agile reporter is kept in a state of ceaseless activity. In the midst of it all the large college teams keep on as usual practicing with their old graduate players and it is safe to say that the big games will be played as usual, despite the undergraduate rule.

To an unprejudiced observer it seems that the rule of eligibility as promulgated by Harvard is about the fairest and will at the same time do much to keep the college athletics upon a purely amateur basis. In all probability the larger college teams will eventually decide to follow that rule.

In any case the matter, if it affects Lehigh's teams at all, will be in a favorable manner, for without indulging in any pharisaical platitudes, we can be truly thankful that our foot-ball team is and has been composed strictly of bona fide students of the University, and that every man on the team attends the University primarily for study and not for foot-ball.

It is to be hoped that this will always be the policy of those at the head of our athletic interests, for it is only by adhering to the rule of having strictly amateur teams that true college spirit can be fostered.

WE took occasion some time ago to congratulate the Epitome Board of 'Ninety-five on their method of obtaining matter for their volume. We have always contended that the Epitome should be a college book, and believe that the offering of prizes was the best thing the Board could have done to attain this end. We were consequently gratified when we saw the list of prizes publicly posted, but it was with regret that we noted a serious omission; there is no prize for the best Lehigh song.

That there is musical ability among the students there can be no doubt; a Saturday with the "fiends" in the drawing rooms, an evening among congenial friends, or a "shop visit" to Easton or Allentown, establishes the versatility of the Lehigh man as regards musical invention.

If each successive Epitome Board would offer prizes of this sort, the best of the pieces thus obtained compiled, would, we are confident, make a very creditable Lehigh song book. We have already about half the number of songs required for this very necessary adjunct of college life. What we need now are a moderate number of new and catchy songs, and a publisher with sufficient confidence in the Lehigh man's college spirit to issue the book. That the Lehigh "schtudent" appreciates Lehigh music was proved by the enthusiastic reception which the "Brown and White" received when presented last Spring by the Glee Club.

We have the men with the talent, the men with the appreciation, and the men with the money, and, as Mr. Bunsby would say, "therefore." It is not too late for the 'Ninety five Epitome Board to set the songs a-rolling. By all means let us have a Lehigh Song Book.

GENERAL NEWS.

THE GLEE AND BANJO CLUBS' TRIPS.

THE Glee and Banjo Clubs of the University have started out upon what promises to be another successful season. Each club has practiced until it is in excellent shape, and the college has indeed something to look forward to in the home concert on the 25th of November.

Womrath, '96. Bass Banjo—J. G. Lehman, '96.

The first date of the season was at Pottsville, on October 13th, and the clubs left for that place in their special car on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at three o'clock that afternoon. They were accompanied by a rainstorm, which by the way, seems to have become one of the unavoidable circumstances of each and every trip, yet the fury of the elements did not prevent a large audience from hearing them in Pottsville.

The following program was rendered and appreciated:—

PART I.

1. Waken, Lords and Ladies Gay, Mendelssohn.
Glee Club.
2. Washington Post, Sousa.
Banjo Club.
3. College Songs, Car. Col.

5. Specialty by Mr. Hallock, .
6. Love and Beauty Waltzes, Armstrong.

7. Brown and White, Arr. Wolle.
Glee Club.

The Pottsville Club entertained the Lehigh men very royally at their rooms after the concert, and our Alumni in that town deserve a great deal of credit for the manner in which they did their part in the arrangement of the whole affair.

With delightful recollections of the night before, the clubs on Saturday left Pottsville for Hazleton, where they appeared in the evening. The same program was rendered to another appreciative audience of fair size, and how well indeed they did "tumble" to the solo on the bass banjo, during the intermission.

Sunday morning found the car on its way home, and at every station at which the train stopped, the Board of Managers, otherwise known as the "camp followers," would alight and give the yell which they have originated for use in travels into regions of primitive civilization.

"Hi! Yi!
Verdomdt Zeit!
Guck a mul do!
Der Lehigh!"

And this was quite effective at certain parts along the road where the native language is spoken.

Catasauqua was favored with a concert on Friday the 20th inst. The full membership of the clubs did not appear, and on account of the illness of Mr. Pettinos, the Banjo Club was obliged to play without his leadership and did very well. The Glee Club have been singing extremely well in the absence of Mr. Wolle at the World's Fair. They have been without him on both trips, and they have improved in confidence at least in his absence.

There seems to be a growing tendency on the part of the Glee Club to lighter music and to more humorous work than heretofore. This is quite commendable and opens a field for originality. A committee of the Glee Club has been appointed to draw up and arrange under Mr. Wolle's instruction, a new medley of the latest and best songs of the day.

FOOT-BALL.

UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA, 32; LEHIGH, 6.

UNDER a bright sky, a sun that brought the perspiration out upon the brows of the brawny canvas-backed giants, and beneath the eyes of twelve hundred yelling enthusiasts, Lehigh's cripples went down in defeat before the strong men that the University of Pennsylvania has gathered from far and near to bear the Red and Blue to victory upon the gridiron field. But not without a gallant struggle was defeat accepted. Time and again did Lehigh's rolling slogan ring out in recognition of the brilliant work of the Bethlehem team's forwards, while often did the Lehigh backs make good gains through the line and around the ends. The work of Roderick was especially noticeable, and but for his untimely injury at the beginning of the second half Lehigh might at least have scored again. McClung was here, there and everywhere, in all the interference, and as usual never missing a tackle. Okeson on end played the game of his life, and his work stamps him as a worthy successor of Van Cleve, Walker and Riddick. Of the other line men, Greenwood played a game noticeable because of his many good gains. His training at half-back has taught him to get off quickly and to hit the line with force.

The brilliant work of the Pennsylvania backs was the feature of the game. In Osgood, Gelbert, Brooke and Knipe, the Red and Blue has a quartette of hard running, ground gaining backs such as no one team has ever possessed.

Pennsylvania took the ball, and Gelbert made twenty yards on an open wedge play, but after a series of short rushes Lehigh got the leather on downs. After good gains by Thurston, Roderick and Greenwood, the Brown and White can gain no more and Pennsylvania secures the ball. But Lehigh soon gets it again on her ten-yard line by good defensive play. Floyd then kicks for thirty yards, and Osgood catches and runs ten yards before being tackled; but there are four downs again and it is Lehigh's ball.

Roderick makes seven yards, but loses the ball, however, it is soon regained by a brilliant play by Trafton. Floyd kicks poorly, Pennsylvania's ball, but again does the strength of the Lehigh line make itself felt and the Bethlehem men take the spheroid on four downs. Then Roderick makes a brilliant run of thirty yards, but the ball is soon lost on downs. Osgood is given the ball and the ex-Cornellian makes one of his phenomenal runs for a touch-down. The try at goal fails.

Lehigh quickly forms her V in the centre of the field, and Thurston makes fifteen yards out of it. Then comes the play of the game. The teams line up, the ball is passed to Roderick and away speeds the good natured, half-back, Reese is blocked off in an attempt to tackle, Osgood touches the hem of his garment as he brushes by, and Brooke, the only Pennsylvanian between him and the goal-post, is cleverly dodged, and the ball is touched down after a run of fully forty yards.

The goal was kicked by Floyd. Score, Lehigh 6, Pennsylvania 4.

Osgood, for Pennsylvania, made thirty yards out of the V, but Lehigh soon gets the ball; then kicks are exchanged by Brooke and Floyd, and Pennsylvania gets the ball near Lehigh's goal-posts on a poor play by the latter, and after some fierce playing, during which the ball changed hands several times, it was finally carried over the line by Brooke. Goal. Score, Lehigh 6, U. of P. 10.

Lehigh takes the ball, but her V gains but little; the leather is kicked, but soon after returned by Brooke; Roderick runs twenty yards, is hurt, but resumes play. Then, after a kick by Floyd out of bounds, it is Pennsylvania's ball. The leather is given to Gilbert, an easy chance to tackle him is missed by Becerra who has replaced Best, and after a run of thirty yards Gilbert makes a touch-down. Goal. Score, Lehigh 6, U. of P. 16. The half ends soon after.

In the second half, Tarleton goes on in place of Becerra, and Knipe replaces Gelbert. Roderick is soon compelled to retire, and Faust plays in his place.

After a short gain from the V, and a kick by Floyd, the ball is advanced on short rushes to Lehigh's forty-yard line from which Osgood scores a touch-down. Score, Lehigh 6, U. of P. 20.

Lehigh then plays more of a kicking game, but after runs of twenty and of eighteen yards by Osgood and Newton, Knipe goes over the line for a touch-down. Goal is kicked. Score, Lehigh 6, U. of P. 26.

Just before time is called another touch-down is made by Osgood after runs of twenty yards had been made by Newton and Knipe, and kicks had been exchanged by Floyd and Brooke.

The teams lined up as follows:

LEHIGH.	POSITION.	U. OF P.
Best, . . .	left end, . . .	Simmons
Greenwood, . .	left tackle, . .	Mackay
Trafton, . . .	left guard, . .	Woodruff

Thurston, . . .	right half-back, . .	Osgood

Best was replaced by Becerra, and Becerra by Tarleton, and Roderick by Faust. Simmons was replaced by Newton, Gelbert by Knipe, and Abbott by Rosengarten.

LEHIGH, 18; WEST POINT, 0.

ON Saturday, October 14th, Lehigh's football team journeyed to West Point, and defeated the Cadets by a score of 18-0. The weather was anything but propitious, and the rain of the previous day and night made the ground very wet and slippery, causing a great deal of fumbling in the early part of game. The first half was exceedingly good, neither side scoring. In the second half Lehigh's superior training, and all around playing proved too much for the soldier boys, and they were beaten by three touch-downs, from which goals were kicked. Roderick and McClung performed the best work for Lehigh, while Stacy and Carson were the most admired of the Cadets. The teams were as follows:

LEHIGH.	POSITION.	WEST POINT.
Best, . . .	left end, . . .	Drury
Houston, . . .	left tackle, . . .	Smith
Trafton, . . .	left guard, . . .	Dattle
Keyes, . . .	centre, . . .	Ames
Wooden, . . .	right guard, . . .	Hutton
Budd, . . .	right tackle, . . .	Auttman
Okeson, . . .	right end, . . .	Harbeson
McClung, . . .	quarter-back, . . .	Stout
Roderick, . . .	left half-back, . . .	Garson
Gadd, . . .	right half-back, . . .	Stacy
Floyd, . . .	full-back . . .	King

THE GOSSIP.

THERE was a peculiar uneasiness noticeable among the members of the 10.30 A. M. Club last Monday morning. Most of them were content to sit quietly and take long, steady, contemplative pulls at their pipes. Each smoker saw in his own cloud of smoke the unfortunate series of circumstances, which would cause him to pass dolefully, within the next hour, through the door bearing the all too festively executed letters "The Faculty." How many have thought that to this should be added in letters of deepest black, "Abandon all hope, ye who enter here!"

A certain Junior's grief was greater than he could bear, and he said sadly, "Here I am at the middle of the term hauled up for twenty absences. Of course, most of them I can't blame anyone but myself for, but at least three of them I can trace to the want of a chapel director to every college building. You all know how the Sunday service is. In the first place, when the Glee Club goes on a trip there is no choir, and the attempted singing is like chewing chilled iron. Then the organ always decides to take a rest in a fortissimo passage. Then the chaplain gives out one tune and the organist plays another, and the consequence is a complete collapse. Then there is the continual screeching of the knee rests, which sends cold shivers up your spinal column. Then there's the small distance between pews, the frequent hitches and breaks in the service, the inevitable getting out of tune of the choir, and a whole lot of such things. I don't mind going to church, but I can't stand these happenings every Sunday. I'd inevitably have nervous prostration. Now that is why a director is needed. He should strive to attain the smoothest possible service and perhaps there would be a better attendance, and hence less absences. I know that's about the size of my case."

Similar tales of woe were told and then, as the hour of doom and destruction was fast approaching the 10.30 A. M. Club adjourned, some of the members going to the brewery for bracers, others to the peaceful precincts of the Y. M. C. A. room for a similar purpose, and still others to those who had been there before.

The Gossip has heard of an advertising scheme used to advantage by the athletic management of a western university. Every day that there is a game of any kind, two flags, the stars and strips and the college bicolours, are attached to the "broomsticks" of the trolley cars. Those who see these know that there is going to be a game, and those who were already aware of the fact, are thus reminded frequently of it. Hence two purposes are served.

As the trolley cars here run through the three Bethlehems and Allentown, this system of advertising would be the most extensive and cheapest possible. The Transit Company would, no doubt, do its part since it would be benefited to no small degree by the increase in fares. It might be tried, at any rate.

The Gossip was in the Gymnasium the other day and he hasn't done anything since. He breathed its air and he marvels that he is alive to tell the tale. The Gossip believes in "hanging on" to old customs, but the atmosphere in the Gym. is hardly an old custom; a change would be possible, practicable, and beneficial. The violently expressive odors that assail you as you enter it are something terrific. How any one can sustain life in it for any length of time is beyond the understanding of skilled physicians.

This is an actual case of how the Gym. is kept clean and habitable. When the Gossip was a Freshman he bought a locker key from a Senior; this Senior bought it in his Freshman year and had it continuously in his possession until he sold it. Hence for three years his locker had not been cleaned and had only been ventilated by air whose arrogance grew with its tenure of office. The Gossip had the key in his position for three years and in that time he is positive the locker was in no wise cleaned. There are, it is said, no duplicate keys. Hence for a term of six years, and heaven only knows how much longer this locker (and it is safe to assume the same of all the others) has gone on accumulating germs of typhoid, diphtheria and other "friends of doctors and foes of men." And this is where they teach physical culture!

The Gossip hopes that the first act of the new director would be to "push dem clouds away."

* * *

The Gossip is not naturally a shy and retiring young person, but he received a number of shocks the other day that have well nigh demoralized his nervous system, strong man as he is. They commenced one morning when, after awakening from a deep dream of peace, he glanced at the clock, saw that it was five minutes past eight, and remembered that he had the first three hours on. Lightning seems a tame word to express the rapidity that characterized the Gossip's movements as he dressed, ate his breakfast, and went to chapel. A few minutes afterward he fell into a doze while listening to the professor dilate on the peculiarities of the point of infinity, and his wandering thoughts fell insensibly into verse which the Gossip jotted down as follows:

What wonderful things we should probably see
At the mystical point of infinity;
Where parallel lines meet with greatest of ease,
And gay young parabolas turn to ellipses.

There algebra loses its frightening power,
And geometry seems but the sport of an hour.
"Mechanics and calculus?" Well, it would be amusing
To think that to anyone they were confusing.

If ever it chances that one of us finds
This heavenly point, in the course of his grinds,
Let us bargain to send from infinity
A math. key for suffering humanity.

Just here he was rudely brought to his senses by hearing his name called loudly, and a cold shudder ran through his whole being as he realized that the problem assigned to him was not included in his repertoire. This almost prostrated him, and at 11.30, with the idea that a little exercise would straighten him up, he repaired to the Gym. He took his exercise, followed it with a shower-bath, rubbed himself down, and was engaged in surveying his symmetrical shape with great pride when a little shriek startled him, and, turning, he beheld two young ladies, who were evidently determined to see all there is to be seen about Lehigh, gazing at him with wide open eyes.

Now, the traditional fig-leaf is not generally supposed to be an indispensable item in the make-up of a young man's wardrobe, and yet, at that instant, the Gossip considered his painfully incomplete without one. But as he stood there, horror stricken and with a sickening sense of the insufficiency of his apparel growing stronger every moment, the young ladies slowly withdrew, and the Gossip was left alone with his thoughts.

These numerous shocks, however, have been almost too much for him, and he is now in a precarious condition.

CLIPPINGS.

In olden times the lovelorn youth,
 Who held life not worth living,
 Would plunge a dagger in his heart
 And die his love forgiving.
 The modern youth who, soured by love,
 Seeks shorter paths to heaven,
 His sweater dons, eats raw beefsteak,
 And joins the foot ball 'leven.

TWO WAYS OF LIFE.

In shadowy depths of woodland dim and fair
 A white-stoled sisterhood of blossoms dwell,
 Each in her dainty, moss-lined oriel,
 And a pure fragrance ever lingers there,
 Ethereal incense of unspoken prayer,
 While far as chiming of a fairy bell,
 The thrush and bluebird their glad tidings tell.
 Without unsheltered from the burning air.
 God's tiny pensioners gathering up his gold
 Smile through the way side grasses at our feet;
 The cuirassed dandelion brave and bold,
 Bright buttercups and daisies dewy-sweet,—
 Themselves a largess of His wealth untold
 To weary toilers in the noontide heat.
